

Honeywell Users Group Symposium 2012

June 10-14, 2012 • The Phoenician Scottsdale

Save the Date

Developed by customers for customers, Honeywell Users Group (HUG) attracts users with similar needs and experiences. Attendees at the annual symposium have an opportunity to network, share best practices, exchange ideas, and learn about new technologies, project implementations and applications.

The 4-day educational conference includes numerous industry and application breakouts, technical training classes (a $750 value!), a technology demonstration area staffed with Honeywell technical experts and more.

Attendee Comments

"This was my first HUG. It was pleasant to see that many different hospitals were experiencing similar issues to our own and how they were dealing with them."

"I fully enjoyed the experience. I found that all presenters and speakers were very passionate and knowledgeable. All of the experts were very easy to talk with and full of ideas and suggestions."

"It was an amazing combination of beneficial learning, networking, and luxury that I would not normally enjoy. It also strengthened the relationship between vendor and customer. The effort given shows Honeywell is truly dedicated to improving our relationship."

"It was great to learn that Honeywell EBI can be used for much more than what we are currently using it for. Now that we see that we have a system that is capable of integrating lighting, security, real-time meters, etc... we will be looking at expanding our current EBI system where we can."

HUG Training Services Offering

Your Service Contract can be used as a convenient vehicle to pay for the costs to attend the Symposium allowing you and your organization to more easily budget for the event. The Training Services Contract offering includes:

- The registration fee
- Up to 5 nights per person at the designated conference hotel
- Access to 3 post-conference web-based technical training sessions
